

ACM celebrates IHE Award for Technology Enhanced Learning

The Independent Higher Education award supports institutions using technology to improve the learning experience. ACM was praised for their development of the Brixton House Campus and its status as a ‘fully networked space’

Beating out The London Institute of Banking and Finance and S P Jain London School of Management for the accolade, recipients are those committed to incorporating technology to support collaboration and hybrid learning, with special mention being made to ACM’s cutting edge technology, curriculum’s alignment with industry practices and emphasis on interdisciplinary skill development.

The incorporation of seamless real-time collaboration and a push-button interface which supports neurodiversity and accessibility for all was also highlighted by judges.

ACM was also shortlisted for the Supporting Staff Wellbeing.
